New York, Dec. 5 .- Two masked burglars entered the home of Elias Asiel, a BULLETIN BOARDS. nillionaire broker, at 15 East Sixty-third street, early to-day, and after vainly trying to force him to open a safe in his room, beat him insensible with brass knuckles, bound and gagged him, and left him helpless, bound to the bedpost. Before he could summon assistance, they had escaped into Central Park.

The gag used was carried by one of the burglars. It was made of surgeon's gauze, and the cord and the gag are the only clews the thieves left behind them.

There was a desperate fight before Dr. Asiel was overpowered, but no one else in the house heard the noise. A $250 watch, $90 in money, and about $200 worth of silverware and jewelry were taken by the burglars, but they entered the house for Tabard inn Library.

On Millionaire's Row. Mr. Asiel's home is in the heart of a section of the city occupied exclusively by millionaires. He is head of the firm of Asiel & Co., at 52 Broadway. Some of his prominent-neighbors are the Postleys, the Bloomingdales, and the Brokaws.

Mr. Asiel built the handsome house for his wife only a short time before her his wife only a short time before her death, two years ago. Since then he and his daughter, Miss Ilma, have occupied the big mansion with a retinue of serv- tob ants. Mr. Aslel's bedroom is at the rear of the second floor. His daughter sleeps in a front room on the third floor.

The thleves went to the basement door, which is on a level with the street and under the stoop. There they used a saw, cutting away an inch iron bar.

Creeping to the second floor, the burglars began to search for jewelry. They found stickpins and jewelry of minor importance, and then they made their way into Mr. Asiel's sleeping apartments.

Mr. Asiel feared that if he made any outery he would awaken his danghter, that the burglars might shoot her if she should run into the hall and try to them. But he was determined to fight and struggled to free himself.
"Oh, you want it, do you?" inquired one of the men. "Then you'll get yours."

With that they began to beat him over the head until he lost consciousness. Then they stuffed the gag into his mouth and tied the tape in a hard knot at the back of his head. The tape, by the way, was sewed to the gag by one skilled in needlework—evidently a woman or a professional tailor. They bound his arms and legs with a long cord and left.
